

ecoForests to be featured on "21st Century Business"

Multi-Media Productions (USA), Inc. is pleased to announce that ecoForests will be featured on 21st Century Business, airing on CNBC (as paid programming) and Fox Business Network (as paid programming).

(EMAILWIRE.COM, March 15, 2011) Boca Raton, FL (TBD) --- ecoForests, a pioneer sustainable forestry investment company, has been selected to appear on 21st Century Business, an award winning international television series. This series will focus on Tropical Timber as a Stable Investment. As the population of our planet continues to escalate, so do the demands of maintaining a healthy environment. Illegal deforestation and destruction has proved to be the traditional approach when gathering timber for various projects. Not only does this inhumane act abruptly invade and destruct the homes of plants and animals, it also contributes to the depletion of our supply of oxygen. Tragically, if something is not done about it soon, mounting carbon emissions will continue to climb and contribute to alarming affects of global warming. ecoForests is a sustainable forestry company that can help potential investors contribute to those needs while providing them with a maximized return on investment.

ecoForests' mission is to develop and sell sustainable hectares of tropical timberland to investors seeking a future profit while also influencing a greener environment. ecoForests plants only the finest quality seedlings and nurtures them in developing into the most eminent trees attainable. The pristine timber that results is then sold to market for a maximum return on investment. ecoForests is devoted to superior customer satisfaction with a clear focus on quality, technique and the importance of security throughout. " Only 31% of the worlds forest remain intact, it is time to take action." - Michael Ackerman , COO at Ecoforests.
